

Register of Telecommunications Development

Bracknell Forest Borough Council

Oct-11

Register of Telecommunications Development in Bracknell Forest.

This register lists the location of existing telecommunication development used by the mobile phone operator networks.

Government guidance, Planning Policy Guidance 8 Telecommunications, (22nd August 2001), gives advice on planning for telecommunications development. This states that “authorities are encouraged to maintain a register of masts and other structures to which apparatus could be attached. Such a register will assist operators in considering possible antenna sites in the local authority area.”

Accordingly, the purpose of this register is to highlight existing masts and structures that may be suitable to accommodate additional telecommunications equipment. This will assist operators in finding suitable sites for mast sharing or for co-location of sites. It should be noted that at the time of preparation this register is as accurate as possible. However, this information is a ‘snapshot’ of existing development at one time and it is likely that during the course of the year additional sites may be developed, whilst other sites may no longer be required.

At present there are 4 main mobile phone operators in the UK: Everything Everywhere (Orange and T Mobile), O2, Three and Vodafone

If you would like to contact the Operators directly the contact details are as follows:
